

MONTE GREEN PLANS $40 MILLION STADIUM

Monte Green, Cambridge real estate operator, announced Tuesday evening that he is heading a syndicate which plans to build a 70,000 seat stadium, in North Wilmington, adjacent to Route 93. Mr. Green made his announcement over Channel Four, WBZ-TV at 6:30 pm.

The cost of the stadium, he said, would be between $25 million and $40 million, depending on whether it had a permanent or a retractable dome. Parking is planned for 15,000 cars.

Green told his listeners that he was not necessarily counting on the Boston Red Sox to use the stadium, but believed it would be a good site for that team.

He pointed out that the combination of Routes 93, 495 and 125 put the area within a 30 minute driving radius from almost any area in eastern Massachusetts.

He was hoping, he said, for the franchise for the National Football League, for Boston, and would be spending Thursday in New York, discussing the possibility of acquiring the franchise with Commissioner Pete Rozelle, of the NFL. The league is seeking a new franchise for 1967, and is interested in Boston.

Green said that the syndicate, which he heads, has a plan for a 50,000 person domed stadium, and an adjacent arena which would seat 20,000 people. Plans for the complex were developed by Sidney Schenker, of Paterson, N.J.

Green was convinced that the failure to enact legislation for the proposed Boston Stadium would make his venture become a reality. The Boston Stadium Authority is seeking state legislation which would guarantee state credit on bonds for a proposed $90 million Hub stadium.

Green told the Town Crier, Tuesday, that if everything went off as hoped, there was a possibility that the stadium would be ready for football this year.

Referring to the story in the Town Crier, several weeks ago, that the MBTA was hoping to locate a terminal for the so-called Reading Branch, near the Evans farm in North Wilmington, Green said that he would be very happy to allow the MBTA to use his parking yard for a nominal fee.

'The peak hours, for the MBTA, would be different than those for the stadium', Green said, 'so that commuter parking and fan parking would not conflict.'

HOW TO GET YOUR MAIL: - Or, The Penguin Saw the Sun. Yesterday was the traditional day for the groundhog to check on future weather, using the old tale of looking for his shadow.

On Shady Lane Drive it was a Penguin that was out looking for the sun - a stuffed penguin brought back from the Antarctic a couple of years ago by Charles Lounsbury, former Chief Hospitalman, US Navy.

The penguin, in addition to seeing the sun, is surveying the cardboard mailbox which Lounsbury put up because there was too much snow for the mailman to reach the regular mailbox.

Postmaster Henry Porter approves of the idea of a temporary box or other receptacle for mail, if there is too much snow for the mailman, either RFD or foot delivery. A #10 can, on a stick, he says, is the easiest way.

Snow in the Square 'til Friday

The ice on the streets of Wilmington, and the snow packed up along Main Street, in Wilmington Square, will probably be removed by Friday afternoon.

Town Manager Dick Henneberger and the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce have both received many complaints over the snow plowing of a week ago, when the town was covered with 10 inches or more of wet snow.

The statements made by the Board of Selectmen, Monday, in their meeting were relatively mild to some that have been made during the past week by residents of Wilmington.

The town no longer has the old Walters Snow Fighters, which have been clearing the streets since 1951. They were sold about a year ago to a local business man. The Snow Fighters used to scrape the road clean of ice, by blades suspended from beneath the center of the truck.

The Highway Department, during the snow fall of a week ago, seemingly did not follow its practice of mixing salted sand in the bottom layer of snow on the streets to assist in the breakup of ice, when the storm subsided.

From one source or the other, the streets of Wilmington turned into a rough sheet of ice, after the storm, and the complaints were loud.

No one, for instance, could drive over 20 miles an hour on Middlesex Avenue, a street that has customary speeds of 30 - 40 miles an hour.

Over the past weekend the Town Manager hired a Motor Grader, which, like the Snow-Fighters, has a blade suspended from beneath the main body of the vehicle, and a Caterpillar tractor 'Cat', to assist the local equipment. The 'Cat' was first put to work clearing ice off Eames Street, which was perhaps the worst street in town for ice conditions, and the Motor Grader has been working every day since it was hired.

FEB 14TH - LAST DAY FOR REGISTRATION

The Wilmington Board of Registrars have given notice that the last day for new voters to register, before the annual Town Meeting, will be the 14th of February.

The Registrars will be in the Town Hall from 12 noon to 10 pm on that day, to register new voters.

It will be impossible, the TM told the Chamber of Commerce, to get the piles of snow in Wilmington Square out of the way, before Friday. He just can't hire the equipment necessary until that time.

A 1957 graduate of Boston University, with a BA in History, he received his Master's Degree in Education from the State College in Boston.

BIGGEST FISH? The largest fish ever to be caught in Silver Lake, as far as the Town Crier knows, was this pickerel caught Sunday by Jere Melzar, North Woburn resident, formerly of Lake Street. The pickerel was 26 inches long, and weighed 5 pounds exactly. With Jere is his son Mark. The pickerel is on the left.

Town Crier's Foreign Correspondent

This range proved to be a divider of another sort also, as I encountered the Italian speaking residents of Southeast Switzerland.

With the intention of visiting all of Italy, I decided to start learning Italian, which was unexpectedly easy due to my background in both French and Spanish.

The many clear blue lakes of Southeast Switzerland and North Italy provided spots not only for my mid-day picnic meal, but for a refreshing swim as well. I visited the old city of Bergamo, where Pope John XXIII had studied in the monastery, and also Sotto il Monte, the small rural village where the late Pope was born and raised.

Viewing the humble environment where the late Pope lived, I could understand the depth of his love for all men in all places of life.

I went on to Milan and spent two days seeing such sights as the world-known Duomo (cathedral). The completely white summer uniforms of the traffic policemen in Italy caught my attention, and I found myself referring to them as 'Mr Clean'.

Great numbers of German and other foreign tourists were encountered on the way to Venice. They were taking advantage of the vacation opportunities among the lakes of the district.

Venice is indeed a unique city, built over water, with canals as streets. You may not travel by any vehicle other than boat, in this land of the gondola. However, you may walk as far as your legs will carry you through narrow lanes and over an intricate system of canal bridges. It is quite a novelty to see the Coca-Cola man steering his barge through the routine delivery route along the canal.

San Marcos square is quite impressive and a must for all visitors. I continued through Bologna to Florence, where for several days I was enguiled by the works of Michaelangelo and other Italian and foreign artists.

After checking to make sure that the Tower of Pisa had not leaned too far, I spent a week in a small seaside town of Marina de Massa, in a youth hostel located on the water's edge.

I was later delayed in my journey when I discovered that 'not all roads lead to Rome'. Especially this was true of one which I was using, as it was covered with about five feet of water, thanks to several days of torrential rain. I spent one night with several hundred other stranded travelers, in a railroad station, after which I continued on through flood-swept secondary roads which eventually led to the Eternal City.

A worthwhile investigation of the many attractions of Rome would take several weeks, so I looked around and work signing, with my guitar, in 'Jerry's Luau'. (No, I didn't buy the place). I spent my nights entertaining at Jerry's, where I had the pleasure of singing for such celebrities as Broderick Crawford, Don Ameche, Dale Robertson, Gordon Scott, and many others. In my free afternoons I visited the countless places of interest in the city which was once the world center of culture and the capital of a huge empire.

The Rome of today is such an international city that it is not really a just representation of the average Italian way of life. It is often referred to as an island city within this nation of enticing cuisine and over-egotistical 'Don Juans', as any foreign girl visiting can confirm.

While in Rome I was rooming in the house of an elderly Italian couple who spoke no English, and I was obliged, therefore, to quickly further my ability in the native language. This family atmosphere was, for me, much more genuine than the bright lights and high prices of Via Veneto (the 5th Avenue of Rome).

After a stay of five weeks I left the capital for Naples, where I encountered many US Sailors who were stationed at the large port.

I stopped in at Pompei, to view the ruins of the ancient city which had been covered for so long by lava from nearby Mr. Vesuvius.

I went on to Sorrento, where a short boat trip took me to see the Blue Grotto of Capri. I had an all-too-short three day visit to this part of the Italian coast.

The quality and number of beaches was disappointing, but the rugged terrain and the beautiful coast line helped to make up the difference. The island is very small and a few day excursions by foot will treat you to all the splendor of the varied scenery there. Excellent weather during my stay was the crowning touch which resulted in a sad 'arrivederci' as I returned to Sorrento from the uncrowded haven. Passing through Salerno, I next stopped at Paestum, where several Greek temples from 600 BC are standing in a remarkable state of preservation.

Although I had been cautioned by a number of people about the danger of travelling in southern Italy, I drove on to Reggio Calabria and crossed into Sicily, where I spent nine days visiting the eastern coast from Messina to Siracusa.

The Selectmen's Meeting

The Board of Selectmen instructed the Town Manager, Monday night, to increase efforts to remove the snow and ice from the major streets in the town, and on the advice of TM Dick Henneberger and the Water Commissioners, decided to remove two articles from the warrant for the annual town meeting.

The two articles struck from the warrant were originally requested by Jackson Brothers, Inc. One of the articles concerned giving up a lease and the other involved realigning a lease. The Water Commissioners requested deferring the articles because weather conditions prevent the location of a water line in relation to a pole line.

Selectman Black asked if something could be done to improve conditions on the town's main streets. He pointed out that snow banks still remained on Main St., Church Street and Burlington Ave. Main Street, Black asserted, has become, in effect, a one-way street. He urged that the town prohibit the parking of cars and trucks on Main Street until weather conditions improve.

Selectman Niles said that street conditions in Tewksbury and Burlington were much better than in Wilmington. He asked TM Henneberger why Wilmington can't perform as well as these towns in removing the ice from the streets. Selectman Bender added that he had seen several snow plows driving around with their blades up. 'What we need,' he said, 'is to build the highways closer to the plow blades.'

Henneberger said that every effort was being made to clear the streets, but Wilmington's equipment simply wasn't equal to removing the ice. He emphasized that the men had been working 'night and day'. Additional help was difficult to find, Henneberger told the Board, but added that he would try to get some more men before the next major storm strikes.

Niles asked for a report on the status of the library article. Henneberger replied that he had, as yet, received no official report.

Unofficially, however, he said he had been informed that the Library Trustees had agreed to the $450,000 figure set by the Finance Committee. An additional $90,000 is to be added for site preparation. 'This involves,' Henneberger said, 'a reduction in both total square feet and foot cost.'

Mrs. Drew read a letter from Governor John Volpe thanking the Board for its commendation of the actions of State Trooper Carl Vets in the December 7 fire which severely damaged the home of John Elia on Salem Street. Volpe said it is 'too infrequently that well-earned recognition and appreciation are given to these men, who daily place the lives of our citizens above their own safety.'

The Department of Corporations and Taxes informed the Board by letter that the audit of the town funds will soon be received.

The Board went into a brief executive session from 8:25 to 8:35 pm to confer by telephone with Acting Town Counsel Alan Altman about a court case.

With no appointments scheduled for the evening, the Selectmen adjourned at 9 pm.

Will not attend Rotary meetings

Corydon Coombs, owner and manager of the Coombs Furniture Store, in North Wilmington, became the newest member of the Wilmington Rotary Club, last week. He was inducted after the usual speech about The Four Way Test, - Is it the Truth? etc. and then the usual exhortation about never missing a meeting, for the honor of Good Old Wilmington Rotary.

Corydon went to Chelmsford in the afternoon, and while driving was stricken with a heart attack.

He was rushed to a Lowell Hospital, and placed in an oxygen tent, where he is now recovering.

But it will be a long time before Corydon pays attention to the exhortations about never missing a meeting.

Student Government Day

High School voters, under the sponsorship of the League of Women Voters, will elect candidates from the junior and senior classes to fill positions of five selectmen and six school committeemen on March 7th.

The elected candidates will appoint a Town Manager and a School Superintendent to serve during the Student Government Day of March 30th. For two weeks following the elections, the student officials will attend School Committee and Selectmen's meetings.

Town officials and school administrators will explain the purpose of the project to the high-schoolers at a Kick-Off Assembly on February 7.

The successful candidates will be honored at a dinner on Student Government Day when recommendations by the student officials will be announced.

The League, with this program, hopes it will promote student interest in their town and provide practical experience in the mechanics of town government.

Public Library Plans

Philip Buzzell, of the Board of Trustees of the Public Library, has written a letter to Chairman Robert Michelson of the Permanent Building Committee, saying that the trustees have agreed to the figure of 14,000 square feet, for the proposed public library.

Approximately 12000 square feet is to be in the main floor, and 1500 to 2000 feet in the cellar. Provisions are to be made so that a second story of about 7000 to 7800 square feet can be added at a future date.

Plans for a
Space Age Hospital

A $2.5 million dollar or more hospital for Wilmington and its neighboring towns of Reading, No. Reading, Billerica, Burlington, Woburn and Tewksbury is planned and sponsored as the first major project of the five year old Wilmington Chamber of Commerce.

This would be the first new hospital to be built in the 7 town area since 1948. A strategic location, on a 10 acre tract of land at Interstate 93 and Route 129 at the Wilmington - Reading line, would comprise the hospital's primary service area of 100,000 population as well as the west suburban industrial complex.

J. H. Ritchie and Associates of Chestnut Hill, well-known hospital consultants and architects, have submitted tentative plans for a 102-115 bed hospital. This might easily be expanded to 150 beds due to the great interest expressed by the communities at the present time. The three story hospital would specialize in the treatment of modern day industrial accidents, including radiation, chemical and electrical burns and injuries. 34 leading physicians from the areas to be served have voiced their support for the project.

In this joint project, each community would have representation on the hospital's board of trustees and medical staff. A maximum grant of $440,000 can be obtained from the Federal Government Hill-Burton Fund, with the remainder raised from major gifts from industries, business firms, special subscriptions and the like.

A. Melville Woodside of the Wilmington Center Pharmacy is the Chairman of the special committee working on the hospital. Other committee members are Raymond McNamara of McNamara Tire Co.; Warren Kunz of Avco; Dr. Robert Mobbs, Surgeon; Robert Zirkel, Manager, Middlesex County Bank; Richard Tufenkjian of Sweetheart Plastics, Inc.; and Lillian M Woodside, Secretary of the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce.

Letters

January 27, 1966

Dear Larz,

May I through your paper, publicly report the results of the 1965 Wilmington Fund Raising campaign for East Middlesex Association for Retarded Children.

$1,450.00 was collected through the efforts of 12 very dedicated captains and 123 wonderful solicitors. Included in this amount is the sum contributed by many businesses and industries in the town.

One of the more significant aspects of the campaign was the active participation of 48 young people from the CYO of St. Thomas and St. Dorothy parishes, the Methodist Youth Fellowship and the Pilgrim Fellowship of the Congregational Church under their respective leaders.

Along with the gratitude of EMARC, I would personally thank most sincerely the captains, solicitors, Mrs. Sarah Flight of the staff of Middlesex County National Bank, who served as local treasurer, Ray Fitzmaurice, chairman of business and industrial solicitation and Maynard Eaton, chairman of the coin container program. And, Larz, EMARC appreciates further the excellent news coverage of its drive in Wilmington.

Very truly yours,
Bill Stickney
General Chairman

Dear Larz,

My family and I have just moved to Wilmington. As strangers in a new town we might have had a problem on Who - What - Where. Thanks to the Town Crier, we now know all the important things.

We have located a church, places to go and shop, not to mention all the news that one might miss in a big city newspaper.

Thanks for making us feel at home.

Dear Larz,

We would like to express our most sincere gratitude to Gus Blaisdell and Lester Smith of the Wilmington Fire Department for their very capable and efficient response to our call for assistance last Sunday.

They rushed our baby to St. John's Hospital at the height of the storm -- we are so grateful to them.

Sincerely,
Leo & Kathleen Barry

1965 HOME CONSTRUCTION IN AREA REACHES $4,501,560

Robert E. Stewart, President of the Mechanics Savings Bank, has reported that home construction, during the 12 month period, in the Wilmington, Reading and North Reading area has reached a total of $4,501,560 compared with a 1964 total of $4,864,842.

Wilmington had a total of $1,780,510 in 1965 and $2,406,900 in 1964. North Reading was $1,570,250, ($1,547,542 in 1964), and Reading, $1,150,800 ($910,400).

Alterations, additions and repairs to all types of existing structures, both residential and commercial, came to a total of $490,695 ($790,150 in 1964); Wilmington $103,750 ($229,750); North Reading $159,625 ($200,425); and Reading $227,320 ($359,975). Total deeds and mortgages recorded in the area for 1965 came to 2,231 and 2,059 in 1964. 1966 The Best Year for Homes

In view of the financial developments in the latter part of the year just ended, the year 1966 may become an important year for home-buying. Traditionally, this part of the country enjoys the most favorable mortgage rates of all. However, with the cost of money revised upward by the Federal Reserve, the change in rate will be felt here as elsewhere. The purchase of a home is still a two-fold investment in security. First, mortgage rates have not felt the effect of change generally in this area and secondly, home ownership is the best hedge against the rising costs of the continued business spiral.

Monte Green's proposed $40 million stadium

MONTAGREEN HEADS SYNDICATE

Monte Green, Cambridge real estate man, is the head of a syndicate which has considerable holdings of land in North Wilmington, all of which was purchased about a year ago.

Green, on March 30, 1965, bought from John Robert Evans 58.4 acres of land, part of the 'Friends Farm' of yesteryear, land which had been under option to the Cryovac Company, a subsidiary of W. R. Grace and Company. The price according to tax stamps, was over $100,000, with a $176,000 mortgage to the Grace Company.

At about the same time he bought land from Alice Doucette on Ballardvale Street, from John Ellis Doucette, and from Mary Mercuto, spending in all a total of about $383,500 in cash or mortgages.

Some of the people interested in the syndicate are Attorney Anthony Gargiule of Cambridge, Paul G. Houlian of Winchester, Marshall Sterman of Framingham, an investment banker, and Joseph Gustie, Jr., of Belmont.

ARCHITECTS SKETCH OF PROPOSED $40,000,000 SPORTS STADIUM, which Monte Green hopes to build on the former Friends Farm, in North Wilmington.

The former Friends Farm, (uppermost) faces on the railroad and on Route 93, in addition to its frontage on Ballardvale Street, and thus would lend itself to being a convenient location for an MBTA terminus as Green proposes.

The stadium is planned to be built on this property.

The former Mercuto property could be used for excess parking. Note that it fronts on both Ballardvale Street and on Route 125.

The former Doucette property is the only property that is controlled by Green and is not zoned for industry. But it is the only entrance to land to the north which is zoned for industry.
